

WHAT MATTRESS STYLE SHOULD I BUY?

TIGHT-TOP

A Tight-Top Mattress means that it does not have the extra layer of cushioning that a Pillow Top or Euro Top mattress has. Instead, it has a PolyFiber Pad and quilted top. These mattresses tend to be firmer than a Pillow Top or Euro Top mattress, so they range from medium firm to firm feel.

↑ Firm mattresses are generally better for those who sleep on their back

EURO-TOP

A Euro-Top Mattress is a type of Pillow Top. The Euro Top Mattress has a sewn pillow top layer underneath the mattress cover so the materials will not move around. A Euro Top seems sturdier and are considered longer lasting and provide better support at the edges. The mattresses tend to have a medium firm feel.

Medium firm mattresses are generally better for those who sleep on their side ↑

PILLOW-TOP

A Pillow-Top mattress is one that has an additional layer of padding above the other comfort layers sewn on top of the mattress to increase the plushness. These mattresses tend to be on the softer, plusher side.

SMOOTH-TOP

A Smooth-Top Mattress has just that, a smooth top with a clean fold-over edge. Mostly found on Foam and Hybrid mattress styles. No quilting under the surface of the fabric creates a sleek and modern look. Smooth tops are usually in the medium to firm feel.

Stomach sleepers need a mattress firm enough to keep the hips and midsection from pushing too far into the mattress, look for a mattress that has at least a medium or medium-firm firmness level to make sure that you have ample support.
